

Defense Stout, Eisenhower Tells Nation

By JOE F. KANE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has forged an indestructible force as an anchor of free world security, President Eisenhower has told the American people.

The defensive might is ample for today and constantly is developing to meet the needs of tomorrow, Eisenhower said Sunday night in a nationwide radio-TV address on the eve of his departure for a 15,000-mile Latin-American goodwill tour.

"Today, in the presence of continuous threat, all of us can stand resolute and unafraid," the President said.

In an indirect reply to critics of the U. S. defense program, Eisenhower said: "We have created a great deterrent strength—so powerful as to command and to justify the respect of knowledgeable and unbiased observers here at home and abroad."

Most of the defense criticism has come from announced or potential candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination. Some military officers, both active and retired, also have protested what they called inadequate or misdirected defense policies.

Two announced candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination had more to say Sunday on the defense program.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) told a Democratic meeting at Green Bay, Wis., that the United States is far behind the Soviet Union in missile strength. He said "The scorecard in 1962 expected to show an even greater point spread."

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said in a television interview "When men who have the same information that the President has come to exact opposite conclusions and say we are moving into a position of peril, I would err on the side of caution."

A third presidential possibility, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), said in St. Louis, Mo., Saturday night that this country is no longer "the strongest, most respected and most admired country in the world. We're not adequately prepared to back up our many commitments around the world."

Symington restated on a radio-TV program Sunday night his contention that the administration has misled the public on U. S. defensive strength.

But Eisenhower set forth a different idea. In backing up his own appraisal of American power, the President referred to:

1. Hundreds of Air Force bombers deployed around the world, each capable of "unleashing a frightful destruction." He said they constitute a force far superior to any other in numbers, quality and strategic location of bases.

2. A powerful nuclear force in aircraft carriers and in a host of widely deployed tactical aircraft.

3. Advanced types of missiles. He said "we have literally leaped forward in accomplishments no less than remarkable" in longer range ballistic missiles.

4. The Polaris missile-firing submarine, which he described as an almost invulnerable weapon. The first two Polaris subs are expected to be at sea late this spring or during the summer.

"Collectively," the President said, "this is a force not unduly dependent upon any one weapon or any one service, not subject to elimination by sudden attack, buttressed by an industrial system unmatched on earth, and unhesitatingly supported by a vigorous people determined to remain free."

"Strategically, it is far better armed than any force that could be brought to bear against us."

Governor States More Speakings

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus has scheduled talks to the Pocahontas Chamber of Commerce and Batesville civic clubs today.

He will be in Pocahontas at noon and Batesville tonight. Tomorrow he will go to Fort Smith for an address to civic clubs. This speech was cancelled last week because of bad weather.

Thursday night Faubus is to speak at Moro, near Marianna.

State to Get Another Winter Touch

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas enjoyed placid weather today but the prospect of another brush with winter loomed for the northwest portion.

The forecast called for scattered thunderstorms turning to snow flurries in the northwest late tomorrow. Scattered thunderstorms are in tomorrow's outlook for the rest of the state.

Warmer readings were predicted throughout Arkansas today, with mid 40s in the northwest to the highs expected to range from the mid 50s in the southwest.

Tonight the temperature is due to vary from the upper 30s to the mid 40s.

Coldest reported point in Arkansas early today was Gilbert with a low of 14 degrees. Other lows today ranged from 17 at Fayetteville to 30 at Texarkana.

Rainfall in the 24-hour period which ended at 6 a.m. today included .02 at Flippin and traces at Pine Bluff and Little Rock.

This Is Week of Decision for Finch

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This may be the week of decision for Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff, accused of murdering his pretty socialite wife.

Their trial resumes Tuesday with final arguments by defense and prosecution. Then follow the court's instructions to the jury, and the jury's deliberation.

"Everything that had to be said was said," Dr. Finch said in an interview at the jail Sunday. "All we can do is hope the jury realizes we told the truth. But you can't tell how they'll decide. That's the frightening part. Not knowing."

The truth as the wealthy physician and his 23-year-old mistress have told it in Superior Court is that he did kill Barbara Jean Finch at his home last July 18—accidentally, as she struggled with her for possession of a gun.

The prosecution contends the truth is that Dr. Finch and Miss Tregoff conspired to murder Mrs. Finch to avoid giving her a large divorce settlement.

Miss Tregoff refused to talk with newsmen but the doctor answered questions with good nature.

If acquitted, he said, he probably will resume his practice in suburban West Covina.

Four Injured in Weekend Accidents

City Police investigated four accidents over the weekend in which at least three persons were injured, none seriously.

On West Third Street yesterday afternoon an auto driven by Mrs. Johnny Powell of Bradley collided with a motor scooter ridden by Kenneth Williams, 14, of Hope. Young Williams suffered a knee injury but was not badly hurt. Officers Milam, Moses, Martin and Chief Brown investigated.

Inside Fair Park Saturday night an auto driven by Donald Gary, 16, of Arkadelphia hit a tree. Gary suffered the loss of several teeth; a passenger in the car, Patsy Beard sustained cuts on the head and a bruised leg and Buddy Merrill of Arkadelphia received a cut on his head. A third passenger, Betty Hawthorne, was not hurt. Investigating Officers, Rothwell and Fullerton said nobody was seriously hurt. The car was badly damaged.

Downtown on Main Street Saturday a parked car owned by Harold Rushing was hit and slightly damaged. The other driver failed to stop, according to officers.

Sunday City Policemen Rowe and Shirley arrested Charlie Lee Howard, Negro, on a charge of window peeping. Officers said Howard was on a one to three year probation sentence.

Next Few Years Great Threat, McClellan Says

By LEE LINDER

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said today the next few years may be the most fateful in human history with the greatest threat to this country's survival "the swagging power of atheistic communism."

"Our precious heritage of freedom must be saved," he added in an address prepared for acceptance of the Freedom's Foundation's highest award.

McClellan headed 864 persons, organizations, businesses and schools which were honored on this 220th birthday of George Washington at this historic site.

He declared this country must remain strong, retain a strong moral fiber and stamina, drive out evils of crime and juvenile delinquency and abandon "fiscal irresponsibility."

"Those who scoff at a balanced budget may well be inviting economic chaos," McClellan asserted.

McClellan, chairman of the Senate Rackets Committee, was named for the Foundation's "George Washington Award" yesterday. He was hailed as "an outstanding patriot...who has assailed the battlements of communism and corruption...determined that the citizens of this great land shall be free from the evils of coercion and the perils of deceit."

The Arkansas lawmaker is the fourth person to win the Foundation's top award, which carries a $5,000 prize. He directed that the money be retained by the Foundation for use in educational awards.

Rev. Williams to Be Buried at Washington

The Rev. Charles Livingstone Williams, aged 91, a retired Methodist Minister of Hope, died Sunday afternoon in a Texarkana hospital. He was born at Washington.

Survivors include two daughters Mrs. Robert A. Anderson of Hope and Mrs. Joseph E. Johnson of Russellville.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. Monday at Washington Presbyterian Church by the Rev. G. F. Johnson and the Rev. Olinstead. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery by Oakcrest Funeral Service.

Mrs. Gentry to Handle Red Cross Office

The appointment of Mrs. Will C. Gentry of Hope as Executive Secretary of the Hemphstead County Red Cross Chapter has been announced here by Lloyd Guerin, chairman of the local Red Cross Board of Directors.

Mrs. Gentry will establish a Red Cross office in the stationery and office supply store recently opened adjoining the Gentry Printing Co. at 108 South Main. She can be reached there from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For night, holiday and weekend emergency service, Mrs. Gentry will be available at her home, 714 W. Sixth Street.

Increasing need for Red Cross services in the community led to Mrs. Gentry's employment as Executive Secretary for the chapter.

In addition to the Home Service program maintained by every Red Cross chapter to assist servicemen, veterans and their dependents in emergencies, she will assist in setting up disaster preparedness, first aid and water safety programs, all much needed in the county, Dr. Guerin said.

Four Persons Perish in Building Fire

HARRISONBURG, Va. (AP) — Four persons perished and nine were hospitalized early today in a pre-dawn fire that raged through a three-story brick apartment building here.

Firemen said two of the victims were children and the other two were adults. Their bodies were recovered from the ruins at daybreak.

The dead were identified as Mary Elizabeth Hoffman, 5, and her brother Harry J. Hoffman 3, Otis Rowan 57, and Claude Bowman, 70.

Two fire companies in this Shenandoah Valley city 115 miles northwest of Richmond responded to the alarm.

There was no immediate word on the cause of the fire.

First reports said there were 16 occupants of the building when fire broke out. Of those hospitalized one was reported in a critical condition.

H. Hawthorne Seeks Office of Treasurer

Harry Hawthorne today authorized The Star to announce candidacy for re-election to the office of treasurer of Hemphstead.

In making his announcement, Mr. Hawthorne said:

"While serving the citizens of Hemphstead County as Treasurer, it has been my desire to realize at all times, the honor which the voters bestowed upon me, when I was elected to this important office."

"If I am elected again, I will strive in every way to continue conducting the duties of this office in an efficient, businesslike and courteous manner. It has been a pleasure and a privilege for me to serve Hemphstead County as one of its county officials."

"I want to assure the citizens of my appreciation for your consideration of my candidacy for re-election to the Treasurer's office. Any time I may be of any service to the citizens of Hemphstead County in the Treasurer's Office, or in any other way, please call on me."

Signed:
Harry Hawthorne

Killed in Accident

ERWINVILLE, Pa. (AP) Joseph T. Cherrie, 50, of McGehee, Ark., was killed here Saturday night when struck by a car driven by James P. Cathey of Baton Rouge.

Corner Dr. Guy Ottwell said Cherrie stepped from behind two trucks into the path of the oncoming car.

The hospital reported that although his name remained on the danger list today she is recovering after suturing (stitching) of her injuries. No amputation was necessary. She was said today to be "comfortable under sedation."

Death Penalty Set Aside by High Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court, in a 4 to 3 decision, today set aside the death sentence of Frank Andrew Payne, Negro, for the murder of his white employer at Pine Bluff.

A previous death sentence for the slaying of lumberman J. N. Robertson had been cancelled by the U. S. Supreme Court after the state high court upheld it.

The court majority today said the trial judge erred when he permitted evidence at the re-trial last year about an alleged re-enactment of the crime by Payne immediately following the giving of a confession which the U. S. Supreme Court previously had said was involuntary.

Justice J. S. Holt said for the majority that "this re-enactment amounted to but a part of his coerced confession and was also coerced and unlawfully obtained."

In a dissenting opinion, Chief Justice Carleton Harris contended that the re-enactment was voluntary and did not constitute part of the voided confession.

Harris noted the testimony of Bill Miles, city editor of the Pine Bluff Commercial, that Payne told him he had not been mistreated in any way to obtain the re-enactment.

The chief justice said the jury, which included two Negroes, "apparently found that these acts of the defendant were not coerced, and there being no evidence to the contrary, the jury's verdict should be allowed to stand."

Justice Ed F. McFaddin and Justices George Rose Smith and Jim Johnson joined Holt in the prevailing opinion.

Justice Sam Robinson concurred. That means he agreed with the majority opinion but not necessarily with the exact reasoning behind it.

Robertson was fatally beaten with an iron bar and robbed of his lumber office on Oct. 4, 1955. Payne, then 10, was arrested soon afterward.

Little Rock Girl Hurt at College

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Miss Anne C. Warwick Brown, 21, of Little Rock, Ark., daughter of the Episcopal Bishop of Arkansas, remained on the danger list today after suffering a head injury in a fall from a college elevator Friday night.

Police said Miss Brown, a student, went to the basement to retrieve a glove she dropped into an elevator shaft. Her arm was mangled and she suffered face and shoulder injuries when she was caught in a moving pulley.

The hospital reported that although her name remained on the danger list today she is recovering after suturing (stitching) of her injuries. No amputation was necessary. She was said today to be "comfortable under sedation."

Air Force Lt. William W. Tastel, 23, of Washington, D. C., was killed Saturday near Little Rock Air Force Base when his foreign sports car went out of control and crashed into some trees.

Billy Earl Taylor, 32, of Scott, was killed instantly Saturday night when his car and a tractor-trailer truck collided on U. S. Highway 70 near North Little Rock. The truck driver was not injured.

Mississippi County officers said yesterday a Negro man killed near Wilson Saturday night hadn't been identified. The man, about 50, was struck by a car.

Industry Key to Population Loss

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Industrial expansion is the best hope of absorbing persons leaving the farm and halting the decline in Arkansas population.

This conclusion is stated by two University of Arkansas staff members in the winter issue of the Arkansas Economist.

In an article titled "The Exodus from Arkansas," Dr. John M. Peterson and P. H. Brown say that the reason for the population loss is that there aren't enough industrial jobs for workers leaving farms.

The state's industrial program they say, "still presents the most promising avenue for eventually absorbing the farm population surplus and checking the rate of the exodus."

They say the state's 1958 population would have been 2,150,000 instead of 1,787,000 if growth had been "orderly."

13 Persons Meet Death by Violence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thirteen persons met "violent deaths in Arkansas during the week which ended at midnight Sunday.

Traffic accidents claimed four lives, shooting five, fires two and drowning and logging accidents, one each.

James Lee Thompson, 41, of the Maple Shade Community near Alama, died in a house fire yesterday. Cause of the fire was unknown and Crawford County Sheriff Tom Wilbanks said the house was destroyed before fire trucks could reach the scene.

Other members of the Thompson family were visiting relatives when the fire broke out.

Donald Dale Lamberson, 23, of Chicago, was found shot to death last night at the home of his uncle, Eugene Lamberson, at Bay, Ark. No motive could be ascertained immediately.

Fourteen-year-old Carol Arlene Peathers, a Memphis junior high school student, was beaten to death Saturday in a lovers' lane near Memphis-Arkansas bridge.

Jerry Lynn Blankenship, a 17-year-old married youth, was charged with the slaying. Police said he met the girl in a West Memphis nightclub.

A 16-year-old North Little Rock Negro girl was stabbed to death early yesterday. Dead is Lenora Irvin. Police were holding 17-year-old Willie Mae Hatchett, a Negro girl, in connection with the slaying.

John Dunn, 55, Negro, was arrested near Osceola yesterday in connection with the death of Eddie Davis, 31, Negro, who was killed by a shotgun blast early Sunday. Dunn's home in the Canyon Lake community.

Mississippi County officers said yesterday a Negro man killed near Wilson Saturday night hadn't been identified. The man, about 50, was struck by a car.

'Good Partner' Mission Over South America

By HAROLD K. MILKS

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The Commonwealth of Puerto Rico rolled out a warm welcome for President Eisenhower today on the first stop of his 14-day "good partner" mission to Latin America.

Thousands of Puerto Ricans led by Gov. Luis Munoz Marin were at San Juan International Airport for the President's nighttime arrival by jet from Washington.

American tourists swelled the reception throng. Police closed some roads leading to the airport to keep the crowd to manageable proportions.

Scattered clouds and occasional showers tempered the resort island's heat.

The President set the stage for his journey by telling the people of Latin America Sunday night that U.S. nuclear bomber strength and developing missile-power constitute "a trustworthy shield of peace" against Communist aggression that is as important to Latin America as to the United States.

Eisenhower, at the outset of his tour, faced a cross fire of rival demands in Puerto Rico for independence and staidhood.

"Puerto Rico is a commonwealth within the United States system—by its own choice," the President declared in his pre-departure speech. But hours before the presidential plane was to touch down here, a small but active band of militant seekers for independence began concentrating at the San Juan Airport and outside Ramon Air Force Base, 90 miles away, where Eisenhower was to spend the night.

Strong security precautions were taken against violence. Leaders of the movement, said they were appealing to Latin Americans along Eisenhower's tour route — Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay — to take up their cry of "independence" for Puerto Rico.

Another demonstration was organized by a group seeking to make this island the 51st U.S. state. Placards and signs reading "fly-one" sprouted in many parts of San Juan and in other places on the island.

The President planned a 30-minute visit with Munoz Marin in a lounge of the airport.

Then the President was flying on to Ramon base, where he is giving a small reception tonight and where he will spend the night.

Eisenhower's swept-wing jet transport soared away from Andrews Air Force Base near Washington at 7:49 a.m. EST on the four-nation tour.

After a brief stop in San Juan he flies on to Ramon Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, to spend the night.

A wild yell went up among the guerrillas. Quantrell shouted for order, but was unheard.

Chapter 1

Quantrell looked around the ring of faces — at the bloodshot eyes of Bloody Bill Anderson, the dripping mouth of George Todd, the icy blue eyes of the youngster, Frank James, at the impassive face of big Cole Younger.

"Well, gentlemen," Quantrell said, "I'll leave it up to you. It's not much of a fort, but 100 Union soldiers can give us a rough time of it."

"A hundred Hanks—pah!" snored Anderson.

"I don't see that there's any argument," growled the savage Todd. "We can't go back to Missouri and it's 500 miles to Texas. We need the supplies."

"That's the only reason I'm even discussing the matter," agreed Quantrell. "We need the supplies."

"Then what're we waitin' for?" asked Younger.

Quantrell and his lieutenants quickly moved to the edge of the trees. The unfinished fort—merely an earthen breastwork, five feet high—was 200 yards to the west and south. A half mile away, approaching the fort from the north, was a straggled department: 30 or 40 blue-clad soldiers; two ambulances containing musicians, whose gleaming instruments were bared to the sun; and another ambulance containing two civilians and an officer.

"General Blunt!" exclaimed Quantrell. "I heard he was on his way here to take command."

"A general!" yipped Bloody Bill Anderson. "I ain't never killed me a general."

"You won't kill this one," snapped Quantrell. "We'll take him prisoner. With a general toicker for."

A wild yell went up among the guerrillas, and there was a swift, reckless forward movement. Quantrell shouted for order, but was unheard.

In front of the earthen fort, in a double rank, stood some 40 Union soldiers, ready to salute their new commanding officer as they approached. At sight of the 200 guerrillas headed for them, the soldiers broke and rushed for the protection of the earthen walls.

General Blunt saw them coming. He stood up in his ambulance, began issuing commands, none of which were heard by his bodyguard. Blunt was new in Kansas; his men were veterans. They had fought Quantrell before—and they were alive because they had fled from him.

They fled now. They dispersed in all directions, some taking off for the open prairie, some galloping back toward the north, a desperate few riding furiously for the protection of the earthenwork. Only a half-dozen men stood to fight it out. They died.

The members of the band were encumbered by their instruments. Bullets began hanging on brass horns, cut through drums and smashed fife.

Thirty handmen died, as did five Union cavalrymen. General Blunt somehow got between the milling guerrillas and, under cover of a hot protecting fire from the breastwork, reached the confines of the new fort.

The guerrillas, just out of effective carbine range from the fort, began to plunder the dead soldiers and bandmen. Bloody Bill Anderson kicked a dying man in the face, stooped and picked up a large portfolio that lay on the ground. He tore it open, stared at what he saw and gestured to Quantrell.

"Charley, look at this!" Quantrell rode over and took a rectangular piece of pasteboard from Anderson's hand.

"Lawrence! In front of the Eldridge House. That's me, there," Anderson pointed at one of the figures in the sketch.

Quantrell nodded. "A good likeness, Bill. Although I can't say the same for this one of me."

"Looks just like you," chuckled Anderson wickedly. "And if I remember right, this happened just about like he's got it here." He looked sharply at Quantrell. "You think he was there?"

With the toe of his boot, Quantrell turned the dying man half over. He looked thoughtfully at the pain-distorted face. Slowly he shook his head. "If he was, he was hiding," Quantrell said. He stooped, reached inside the man's coat and took out a leather wallet. He opened it and skimmed through some papers and cards, finally stopping to read one: "John Hovey, Fred Cowan's illustrated Weekly."

"A newspaperman?"

"A very good one, too," said Quantrell. "I've seen his sketches and battle reports in Cowan's paper."

"Well, this is one picture you won't see in it," growled Bloody Bill Anderson, reaching for the sketch in Quantrell's hand.

Quantrell drew back. "No," he said sardonically. He looked down at the dying man. "He didn't get a chance to mail it to the paper, so I think we ought to mail it for him."

Anderson stared at Quantrell, then began to chuckle. "All right, Charley, let's mail it to the paper. They can print it—after he's dead."

Not more than four people were on the street of Raytown as Bokker stepped down from the stage in front of the express office. The agent remained inside, and since there were no other passengers, either coming or going, the stage pulled off, leaving Bokker on the wooden sidewalk with his valise. He signaled to a Negro loitering in front of a nearby store. The man shuffled over. "I'm looking for a man named Grayson," Bokker said. "Bill Grayson. Do you know where he lives?"

The man pointed down the street. "You goes right down this here road, to the first turn, 'bout a half mile. You go along the turn mebbe a mile, mebbe mile and a half. That's Cap'n Grayson's place. Spick 'n span, brand-new white house."

The Negro let him take a half-dozen steps before he said, "That's where he lives, like I told you, but if it's the Cap'n you want to see, he ain't there."

Bokker turned. "Where is he?"

The Negro pointed to a building across the street, a rather large two-story frame building newly pointed. It had a big sign across the veranda: Raytown Hotel-Bar.

"You'll find him in the bar."

Bill Grayson, wearing a linen coat, sat at a table with a whiskey glass before him.

Grayson was about 30, a relaxed, dispirited-looking man. He had long mustaches, but had not shaved in three or four days.

Bokker seated himself and addressed his attention to Grayson. "Have you ever seen me before?"

A flicker of interest showed for a moment in Grayson's eyes, then faded. "It's possible, sir. I have a poor memory for names. Unfortunately."

"It's Bokker, Captain Grayson, Phil Bokker. B-o-k-k-e-r."

"I'm afraid it doesn't ring a bell. Should it?"

"No, but I'd like to show you something. If you'll excuse me a moment."

Bokker rose and, setting his short beer on the table, left the bar. He returned to the lobby, found his carpetbag valise where he had left it. Stooping, he opened the bag and took out a large magazine.

Bokker re-entered the bar and found Captain Grayson. He extended the magazine to Captain Grayson and picked up his beer.

Grayson glanced at the magazine and began to leaf idly through it. "Fred Cowan's Illustrated Weekly," he observed casually.

"Page 11..."

Grayson's eyes flickered to Bokker. He leafed to page 11. Grayson surveyed the picture and made just the right, although delayed, exclamation. "I say, this is about Quantrell!"

Can't See Own Show

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Sabine Sinjen, 17-year-old screen idol of thousands of German moviegoers, autographed her photos Thursday night, received the press and shook hands with fans—but she was not allowed to see the premiere of her own picture. The film is a comic criminal story, "No Angel is so Pure," and German law bars juveniles under 18 from attending such movies.

Austria Has Klan

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Police have arrested five persons they say are leaders of a secret Nazi underground group which has close links with the Ku Klux Klan in the United States and is part of a worldwide network of anti-Semitic and neo-Nazi groups. The police said they raided a local printing plant and seized large quantities of anti-Semitic propaganda from the United States and Sweden. Part of the material carried the imprint "Ku Klux Klan of America," a spokesman said.

left on his 14-day trip. Eisenhower seemed in a jolly mood, looking forward to his faint to warmer climes.

The night before departure Eisenhower went on nationwide TV-radio to tell of his mission which will include stops mainly in Brazil, Argentina, Chile, and Uruguay. He also struck back at critics of his defense policy.

He declared America's atomic bomber and missile power "a trustworthy shield of peace" surpassing Soviet ability to destroy by sudden attack.

He termed this U.S. defense "an indestructible force of incalculable power, ample for the day and constantly developing to meet the needs of tomorrow."

He said it enables the United States and its Allies—including the Latin-American countries to stand resolute in the face of continuous threats.

The main aim of the Eisenhower mission southward is to strengthen U.S. relations with Latin America. A frequent Latin complaint is that North Americans don't pay enough attention to their southern neighbors.

In his speech Sunday night, Eisenhower was in effect reminding neighbors to the south of the direct benefits they have received from the defense efforts that have been a priority item with this country in recent years.

Diplomats from the countries Eisenhower will visit were on hand at the airfield for the send-off. So was Ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa of Nicaragua, dean of the Washington diplomatic corps.

A cluster of top U.S. officials seeing the President off was headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, with several Cabinet officials on hand. Mrs. Eisenhower, however, remained at the White House.

Eisenhower talked about the soupy weather, with Mrs. Christian A. Herter, wife of the secretary of state. Herter is accompanying the President on this tour.

Eisenhower's Boeing 707 jet craft was expected to take three hours on its flight to San Juan. After staying overnight at the U.S. air base on the island, Eisenhower will fly Tuesday to his first stop in South America at Brasilia, Brazil.

Altogether Eisenhower will visit eight cities in Brazil, Argentina, Chile, and Uruguay.

In addition to defending U. S. military policies, Eisenhower devoted much of a radio-TV address to the nation Sunday night to an explanation of his hopes and plans for the South American tour.

Eisenhower said the United States has often been criticized in Latin America on the charge that it has devoted so much attention and money to what he called "the menace of Communist imperialism" that it has neglected its American neighbors.

He said it is true that the United States has given first priority to measures against the possibility of aggression.

But the purpose of this country's military program has been to maintain peace in the world, he said, adding this is as important to Latin America as to the United States.

Despite emphasis on defense needs, Eisenhower said there has been no real neglect of U. S. interest in maintaining close and cooperative relations with "our neighbors in this hemisphere."

His trip is in large part an effort to reassure them on this point. Eisenhower declared his readiness to discuss with leaders of the nations he visits all sorts of problems which they face and with which the United States may be able to help them.

Twice in his speech Eisenhower emphasized that the United States

New Passes Issued

BERLIN (AP) — British and French military personnel made limited use today of the new passes issued Feb. 4 are for travel in the "German Democratic Republic," which the allies contend is an illegal regime.

es issued by the Russian for travel to the allied mission in West Germany, but the Americans held to their boycott except in cases of emergency.

The allies have rejected the passes as an attempt to win a measure of legal recognition for the Communist East German government. Passes formerly used authorized travel in the Soviet zone of Germany, the new passes issued Feb. 4 are for travel in the "German Democratic Republic," which the allies contend is an illegal regime.

"There sure have been some changes since we were kids, Tom"

"Remember how we had to do the milking on those cold mornings, when we had nothing but a coal-oil lamp for company?"

"Yeah—and remember how Mom made me carry the water because she said I was the oldest and strongest?"

"Sure I do! Yep, farming's changed a lot since the old days, and one of the biggest things responsible for the change is the fact that we have electricity."

Twenty-five years ago today—February 22, 1935—was a great day for rural Arkansas. Our Company on that day brought electric service to the towns of Magnet Cove and Prattsville, the first two Arkansas communities to be served under a new pioneering program to bring electric service to thousands of farm families who had never before had electricity.

Today, it would be hard to find a farmstead without the familiar power lines running to it. Our Company now serves more than 100,000 farm customers, and while they may be isolated in some areas, farm life is not. Radio and television bring entertainment, electricity heats many of the homes, and does the washing and pumping, the milking and sawing, the cooking and cleaning.

Best of all, it increases farm income with less work... and that means prosperity and a more abundant life for any farmer.

To Award Prisoners

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—The Judiciary Committee of the Alaska House of Representatives Tuesday proposed a new incentive for good behavior in state penal institutions. Let honor prisoners have overnight visits from wives or husbands.

This would also help prevent families from breaking up, said committee chairman John Helenthal, a Democrat. Visits would be limited to 24 hours every six weeks. Prisoners serving less than six months would not be eligible. Neither would those who hadn't been married six months when sentenced.

McClellan Receives a High Award

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.) will receive today the George Washington Award, highest honor of the Freedom Foundation.

McClellan, Senate Rankers Committee chairman, was named for the award yesterday. He was hailed as "an outstanding patriot, who has assailed the batlements of Communism and corruption, determined that the citizens of this great land shall be free from the evils of coercion and the perils of deceit."

McClellan is the fourth person to win the George Washington award, which carries a $5,000 prize. He directed that the money be retained by the Foundation for use in educational awards.

A total of 864 persons, organizations, businesses and schools were honored in the 11th annual awards list for things they wrote, said or did "to further the American Way of Life."

Special freedom leadership awards went to Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker; Navy Cmdr. William R. Anderson, captain of the atomic submarine Nautilus; Ward Bond, Bob Hope, Hollywood actors; Navy Cmdr. Donald M. Hanson, San Diego, Calif.; Armand Penha, N. e w Haven, Conn., former FBI undercover agent; a thoroughbred Hawkes Hutton, Bristol, Pa.; attorney Elwood Pouts, Houston, Tex., and Dr. Ian Stuart, Birmingham, Ala., author and educator. They were cited as "proper heroes and heroines for the youth of America."

The Award winners, including 141 members of the armed forces and 203 schools, divided $100,000 in cash.

Besides McClellan, eight other awards went to Arkansas persons and institutions. All received George Washington Honor Medals.

Linda Celine Rice of Tillar won $100 for an essay, "The Role of One Citizen in a Democracy."

Dr. George S. Benson, president of Harding College, Searcy, won $100 for an address, "Current National and International Issues." Harding was cited in the college campus category and Dr. Clifton L. Gantt Jr., Harding vice president, was honored for an address, "Communism and the Cold War."

The National Education Program of Searcy was cited in the general category. Brig. Gen. W. P. Campbell (Ret.) of the NEP was honored for an address, "Your Precinct Politics—America's Future." "The Torchlight," Hot Springs High School newspaper, won $50 for an editorial, "The American Way of Life."

Take Heart: Washington Had His Troubles Too

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm very much in love with the girl I'm engaged to. I don't dance but get mad if she mentions going to a dance. I know the girl loves me but I'm afraid I'll lose her because of overpossessiveness and stupid jealousy. — W. D.

Dear W. D.: Today is George Washington's birthday. He was master of self-discipline. Read the diary of his secretary, Tobias Lear, and also Washington's own diary. He learned to dance because of Sally Fairfax, an early love. He wound up a great dancer. If you love your girl, why not learn to dance and give her a whirl? There's a bit of self-discipline which won't be hard to take.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I date a wonderful girl and am very fond of her. She feels the same about me. We almost broke up recently because of all the bad things said about servicemen, especially Marines. I wouldn't hurt her for anything in the world but I don't want to lose her. Should I let her make the decision? If she quits seeing me, would that mean she doesn't care? — B. B.

Dear B. B.: Let the girl make the decision. If she's as wonderful as you think, she'll snap her fingers at the prudes who run down the Marines. Have they forgotten Guadalcanal and Iwo Jima?

Dear Dorothy Dix: A year ago I met a girl who was going steady with someone else. She broke up with him. I obtained her address and started writing to her. In a month we were going steady. After three months, she wrote that she was dropping me. Three months later she wrote that she was through with this other boy and loved me. So for the last two months I have been writing to her again.

Then I went out with another girl. I wrote the first and told her to find someone better than I. Also part of the time I was supposed to be going steady with still another girl. I told them all the truth. My first steady was the only girl I loved. What should I do? — Tiger

Dear Tiger: George Washington had his ups and downs in affairs of the heart. The course of true love never runs smooth. Send your girl a rose a day. A friend in Paris tried this old-fashioned approach. It worked. The girl married him!

Bobcats Teams Sweep District Doubleheader

Hope's Senior and Junior boys basketball teams swept a doubleheader from the Magnolia Panthers in a pair of AA Conference games at Jones Field House Saturday night.

The Bobcats avenged an earlier 47-16 defeat on the Panthers' home court by taking the visitors to the tune of 43 to 37. The game was close throughout with the Cats maintaining a slight lead through most of the contest.

The Junior Bobcats closed out conference play with a perfect record in defeating the Junior Panthers 38 to 27. Hope's Juniors trailed at the half and at the three quarter mark but outscored the visitors 15 to 1 in the final frame to post the 11 point win.

The Senior event was a replica of the first contest with the exception that Hope maintained a slight lead throughout instead of trailing as at Magnolia. At the end of the first quarter the Cats were on top 10-9; led 20-18 at the half, increased the margin to 32 to 27 at the end of the third and closed out 43-37 by controlling the ball the last two minutes.

Hope led 39 to 37 with a minute and a half to go and went into a semi slant. A pair of free throws by Smiley tied the contest with 30 seconds to go.

James Allwhite, big Magnolia center, was high scorer with 15 points. Rankin, Phillips, Baker and Wilson scored 7, 6, 5, and 4 respectively for the visitors.

The Bobcats scoring was even better distributed with Vaughn chipping high man with 9, Walton was second with 8, followed by Thurman and Calhoun with 7 each, Smiley hit 6, Robinson 4 and Churchill 2.

The win over Magnolia insured the cats of at least third place in the 4 AA Conference and made them eligible for the Conference playoff tournament to determine the District's three entries in the state meet to be held in Blytheville.

The Junior Contest was another close one with the score tied 9 to 9 at the end of the first quarter. The Junior Panthers held a one point margin at halftime 20 to 19 and increased it to 26 to 23 by the end of the third quarter.

Earl Ray Murphy, the games leading scorer with 20 points, got hot in the final period and scored five field goals and with help from David Porterfield who hit for a two pointer and Purdie who scored a field goal and free throw in the final frame, built up the Hope margin to 38 to 27.

Dan Jones scored 7, Mac McLarty 6 to complete the Hope scoring.

Johnson led the visitors with 8 followed by Couch with 7 and Tollett six.

For the Juniors this was their final contest before entering play in the State Tournament at Newport next Thursday. Hope plays Benton at 2 p.m. in the opening round.

Some question remains as to the second place entry in the Junior event from the 4AA Conference. Fairview is currently in second place but had a scheduled game with the Hope Jrs. for next week which will not be played because of the State event. A Fairview defeat at the hands of the hands of the Junior Cats would

3-Way Tie in SW Cage Race Due for Change

A three-way tie in the southwest conference basketball race is due to be broken tomorrow night when two of the leaders, Southern Methodist and Texas A&M, clash at Dallas in a crucial game.

Texas the other top squad, meets Baylor at Austin tomorrow night, loss by the Longhorns could give the winner of the Aggie-Mustang tilt undisputed leadership in the loop race.

All three squads have 8-2 conference records. Baylor and Arkansas are tied with 5-5 marks while Texas Tech (3-7), Texas Christian (2-8) and Rice (1-9) bring up the rear ranks.

Arkansas and Rice open this week's play with a game at Houston tonight. Texas Christian and Texas Tech vie at Fort Worth tomorrow night.

Friday the Aggies journey to Lubbock to engage Tech while Texas plays host to Arkansas.

The Porkers have a 10-10 season chart. They're battling in their last four games to stay above the .500 mark.

The three leaders won handily in their Saturday night games. Texas slammed Texas Tech, 74-61; A&M defeated Arkansas, 82-61; and SMU crushed Texas Christian, 98-67.

In the individual honors department, Jay Arnette of Texas clung to the scoring lead with 381 points at week's end. Carroll Broussard of A&M was in second place with 365 points and Steve Strange of SMU in third with 352.

As the season enters its final two weeks, Texas appears to be in the best position to make the NCAA playoffs. Should Texas wind up in a tie for the championship with Southern Methodist, it would get the spot since it beat SMU both times during the season. A tie with Texas A&M, however, would mean a 1-game playoff since the teams split in their series.

Hairdressers Purse Feature at Oaklawn

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The $3,500 Arkansas Hairdressers purse is the feature of an eight-race card at Oaklawn Park here today. One of the favorites in the eight-horse field is Marion H. Van Berg's Sorez, a consistent Oaklawn winner last year.

Sorez won eight of 27 starts last year and beat Mt. Olivet by seven lengths at Sportsman's Park. But he has yet to score in three starts this year.

T. Allie Grissom's Shan Pac is leave them tied with Arkadelphia for second presenting somewhat of a dilemma for the conference to decide.

The Senior District Tournament will find Fairview, Snackover and Hope set in the first three places with fourth to be decided next week between Magnolia and Crossett who both meet Smackover and Fairview in scheduled games.

The Bobcats face Fairview in the Conference closer here next Saturday night.

Tuesday night at Jones Field House the Senior Bobcats A boys and B team face non conference Ashdown in a pair of games.

Tonight at the local gym the Hope 7 and 8th grade teams play Arkadelphia along with the Hope B boys meeting the Badger Bs in a second contest.

When to Fish or Hunt Solunar Tables

A Threatened Fiasco Has Turned Into a Big Success at Eighth Winter Olympics

By MURRAY ROSE
SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—A threatened fiasco has turned into a booming success for the American organizers of the eighth winter Olympics.

The only element lacking now to widen the Yank smiles here is a gold medal. But, the Americans probably will have to wait until Tuesday to collect one of those cherished souvenirs.

Once again it will be up to the girls. That means Carol Heiss, the queen of the figure skaters, from Ozone Park, N.Y., and those daring New England skiers, Penny Pitou of Gifford, N.H., and Betsy Smit of Norwich, Vt., in the giant slalom, on Tuesday.

Sunday's medals went to Sweden's Klas Lestander in the biathlon (cross country skiing and shooting) with a time of 1 hour, 33 minutes, 21.6 seconds; Switzerland's Roger Staub in the giant slalom in 1:48.3; and the Soviet Union's Lidija Skoblikova in the women's 1,500 meter speed skating. The 20-year-old Soviet student broke the world record by three-tenths of a second with a time of 2:25.2.

The speed skating triumph plus solid placings in other events sent the Soviet point score soaring to 63 1/2. The Soviet athletes have the unofficial team title all but sewed up again. Sweden was second with 29, Germany with 28 and the U.S.A. fourth with 16.

Miss Heiss, the four-time world champion and 1956 Olympic silver medalist, had piled up a commanding lead after four compulsory figures in the figure skating championship.

The 20-year-old, honey-haired blonde cuts her fifth and final school figure today. By the time the judges get through counting, she should be so far ahead that no one will be able to catch her in the free skating finale Tuesday morning. She had 628.00 points to 580.5 for her closest rival, Sjoukje Dijkstra of Holland.

When it comes to free skating, the four-minute exhibition to music, Carol is the greatest of them all now and perhaps of all time.

Clear and sunny weather—the perfect kind that lured 32,000 spectators here on Saturday and 47,000 more on Sunday—was expected to attract another throng of 25,000-plus to this tiny, festive valley cupped in the High Sierra.

Official Name Adopted by Archery Club

Local archers met last week at the National Guard Armory and officially adopted "Dyke Springs Archers" as the club name. A club emblem was also adopted, featuring a drawn bow over the state of Arkansas with the arrowhead pointing at Hope. Surrounding the insignia will be the name Dyke Springs Archers.

The emblem was taken from ideas and drawings by Judy Boswell and Mary Alice Caston. The name of the club, of course, originated from the fact that the club field range is located at Dyke Springs.

The club plans to hold a local tournament in early March and a statewide tournament in June.

The archers will meet at the Armory every Thursday night at 7:30 for shooting practice.

Guernsey Jrs. Eliminated in Dist. Tourney

On Friday night at Murfreesboro, in the semi finals of the District Junior B Boys Basketball Tournament, the Guernsey Junior Boys were nosed out by Lockesburg by a 29 to 27 score, but it took three overtimes and a sudden death playoff to eliminate the local boys.

At the end of regulation play the score was tied up 20 all. In the OT both teams scored two points to read 22 all at the end of the first overtime. In the second overtime period each scored only one field goal for a 24-24 tie. By pre-arranged agreement a third period was played ending with it all tied up 27-27. The sudden death went to Lockesburg to eliminate the Hempstead boys.

Tickets to Olympics Are Picking Up

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer
SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—For a while there, the Winter Olympics appeared headed for a financial disaster unmatched since some far-sighted speculator took out a patent to make granite life preservers.

But, like the speculator — who later flourished briefly after finding a formula for chocolate soap — the Olympics are making a comeback, which may or may not be temporary.

For the first two days, at least partly because of menacing weather, Olympic tickets were selling about as briskly as snow shovels in Miami Beach.

At the pair's figure skating championships, there were several more people in the stands than on the ice.

Then, on Saturday, the man in charge of the show tore up a suicide note he had pinned to the wall of his cabin with a ski pole. The crowds were coming.

They were coming so fast, in fact, that the road wouldn't hold them.

There were 32,000 people that day — just 3,000 less than officials said the place would com-

Tues. Night Holds Key to AIC Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Tuesday night's action holds the key to a whole season of basketball in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference.

Any of four teams — Arkansas Tech, Ouachita, State Teachers, or A&M — could emerge with the championship or part of it.

Tech holds the best chance. It can win the title outright by beating Southern State at Magnolia regardless of what the others do. The Wonder Boys hold a 13-4 season record to 11-4 for second-place Ouachita and Teachers and 12-5 for fourth-place A&M.

If Tech loses, there are several possible combinations. Ouachita or Teachers could win it outright if the rest lose. A&M could tie Tech for the title if it won and Teachers and Ouachita lost.

Or Ouachita and Teachers could tie for the crown by winning.

Ouachita meets Arkansas College at Batesville. State Teachers entertains Harding at Conway, and A&M plays host to Ozarks at Monticello. Henderson and Henderson meet at Arkadelphia in the only game that has no bearing on the

Hope and Magnolia Battle for Rebound

THERE WERE MORE GOAL-SHOTS THAN REBOUNDS IN Saturday night's basketball game at Jones Field House which Hope took from Magnolia 43 to 37, and The Editor was lucky to come away with this shot as the ball bounced off the rim into a hassle of players.

PHOTOGRAPHED ON THE WORLD'S FASTEST FILM, the German Arca Isopan Record, rated ASA 8,000, the picture was an experiment with a night telephoto lens shooting without flash. The lens was the Carl Zeiss Sonnar 180MM, 4x magnification, shooting at F 2.8 at 1/500th second. To get the scene in his viewfinder The Editor had to back up to the far end of the court. This was the lens that made a trip back to the Zeiss factory in Stuttgart, Germany, and for which Ned Williams, local machinist, had to devise a special lock-ring for the firing mechanism after its return to Hope.

Police Dept. at Chicago Again Jolted

CHICAGO (AP) — More talking, burglars have jolted the scandal-stricken Chicago police department anew with fresh charges that more than 20 police-men were involved with a gang specializing in swank Gold Coast robberies.

Acting Commissioner Kyran Peltan said Sunday night that Peltan said, after Cohen and Neuman went to Stateville Prison in Joliet and questioned four convicted burglars. He identified them as Harry McLeod, 34, Richard Aloia, 31, Richard Kelley, 25 and Casimir Boniakowski, 31. They are serving terms ranging from 1 to 6 to 4 to 10 years after pleading guilty last November to burglarizing a department store.

Neuman said the four had committed several hundred robberies, most of them in the well-to-do Gold Coast.

This is the third time that burglars' accusations have jarred the force in five weeks.

Richard Morrison, 23, touched off the scandal Jan. 15 when he accused eight policemen from the North Side Summerdale District of aiding him on his looking forays. He charged six others had accepted bribes from him.

Police Commissioner Timothy J. O'Connor resigned and a special grand jury was called to probe the charges. Already 48 policemen have been suspended on civil service or criminal charges.

not only Chessman's execution but to give reprieves to three other prisoners on San Quentin Prison's death row.

Brown said he wants the Legislature to re-examine the whole question of capital punishment when it meets for a special session Feb. 29.

The governor said a major reason for granting the reprieve was advice from the U.S. State Department that President Eisenhower's South American visit might be marred by hostile demonstrations if Chessman kept his death date.

Thus Chessman, 38, an 11-year resident on death row, escaped for the eighth time a scheduled visit to the gas chamber.

An effigy of Gov. Brown was found hanging from a flagpole in front of the Stanislaus County courthouse in Modesto.

Republican Assemblyman Bruce Reagan, a Pasadena investment broker, announced over the weekend that he was interested in possible impeachment of Brown. He made such a rapid recovery from her difficult confinement that court sources said she may be out of bed for a while Tuesday.

This would allow her to receive Prime Minister Macmillan personally when he calls at the palace Tuesday evening to deliver Parliament's formal congratulations on the birth.

Midwest Hit by Another Snowstorm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another heavy snowstorm left an extensive blanket of white across the Midwest today but it appeared to have lost most of its punch as it moved into the snow-covered Northeast.

Snow continued during the night in the Great Lakes region and the upper Ohio Valley but falls were light.

The snow belt spread eastward across Ohio, Pennsylvania, northern Virginia, Maryland and western New York—areas hammered by stormy weather last week.

The same storm dumped up to eight inches of snow in Midwest areas Sunday as it swept across the midlands from northeastern Kansas and Nebraska into the Great Lakes region.

Gusty winds fashioned huge drifts in many areas and highway travel was curtailed. Milwaukee had 20 inches of snow on the ground, including a fresh fall of more than six inches. Falls ranged from three to eight inches throughout the storm belt.

Snow removal operations were under way in the Midwest and in many other parts of the country. Skies cleared in some sections of the freshly hit storm zone.

It was near zero in parts of Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska and temperatures dropped to near freezing in most of Texas. Readings in the teens and 20s were general throughout the middle part of the country.

Sections of the Northeast still were digging out from last week's stormy weather. A new snowstorm developed in the northern Rockies. It spread snow across broad areas of Montana, Wyoming, Utah, western Colorado, Nebraska and South Dakota.

Major highways were opened Sunday in snow-stricken sections of central and western New York and other northeastern areas. The Pennsylvania Turnpike, hit by storms from Thursday through Saturday, again was open for traffic. Hundreds of motorists were marooned along the super-highway Saturday night.

In the South, also hard hit by stormy weather last week, rain fell across the southeast but southerly winds fanned warmer weather to Florida and the south Atlantic coastal areas.

Improved egg production and quality are the results that keep him using AUREOMYCIN.

HE STRESSES STRESS CONTROL!

Egg producer points to improved quantity and quality as solid reasons for continuous use of Aureomycin in layer feeds.

"If you want to keep a hen actually producing up to her maximum potential, you've got to keep her healthy—and that's why I use AUREOMYCIN® in my feed," reports Antone J. Popp, Westville, Ind.

Mr. Popp operates a 4000-hen unit and markets his eggs to stores and restaurants in Gary, Ind.

Controls stress

Mr. Popp says that AUREOMYCIN in the feed carries his birds through their two extreme stress periods in good condition—first, when they leave the range and go into the laying pens and, second, during the August hot weather period, at the end of the hens' productive period.

Improved uniformity

Mr. Popp continues, "Since my laying hens went on a steady ration of AUREOMYCIN about three years ago, I've noticed improved livability in replacement stock and more uniform development, with fewer stragglers, among young pullets.

"When our replacement stock of pullets reaches maturity uniformly, we can substitute them for the outgoing flock all at one time and save ourselves a great deal of time and work."

Controls disease

Mr. Popp further reports, "My observation has been that when any disease does occur among them, chickens receiving a steady intake of AUREOMYCIN snap back to good health faster than chickens not receiving AUREOMYCIN. I'm convinced that AUREOMYCIN adds mightily to my flock's good health."

Good health—good quality

In conclusion Mr. Popp states, "As to egg quality improvement from healthier hens, shell texture is an important indication. That means thicker, tougher shells with less porosity to admit bacteria or permit dehydration."

What Aureomycin does

Some antibiotics knock out only limited groups or types of harmful bacteria. AUREOMYCIN, the wide-range antibiotic, protects your birds against the widest range of disease-causing bacteria. During periods of stress, the harmful bacteria are kept under control and cannot make their damaging attacks on the health of the birds.

AUREOMYCIN helps control CRD, blue comb and synovitis. No antibiotic has as yet bettered the performance of AUREOMYCIN—the first wide-range antibiotic eleven years ago—and still first today.

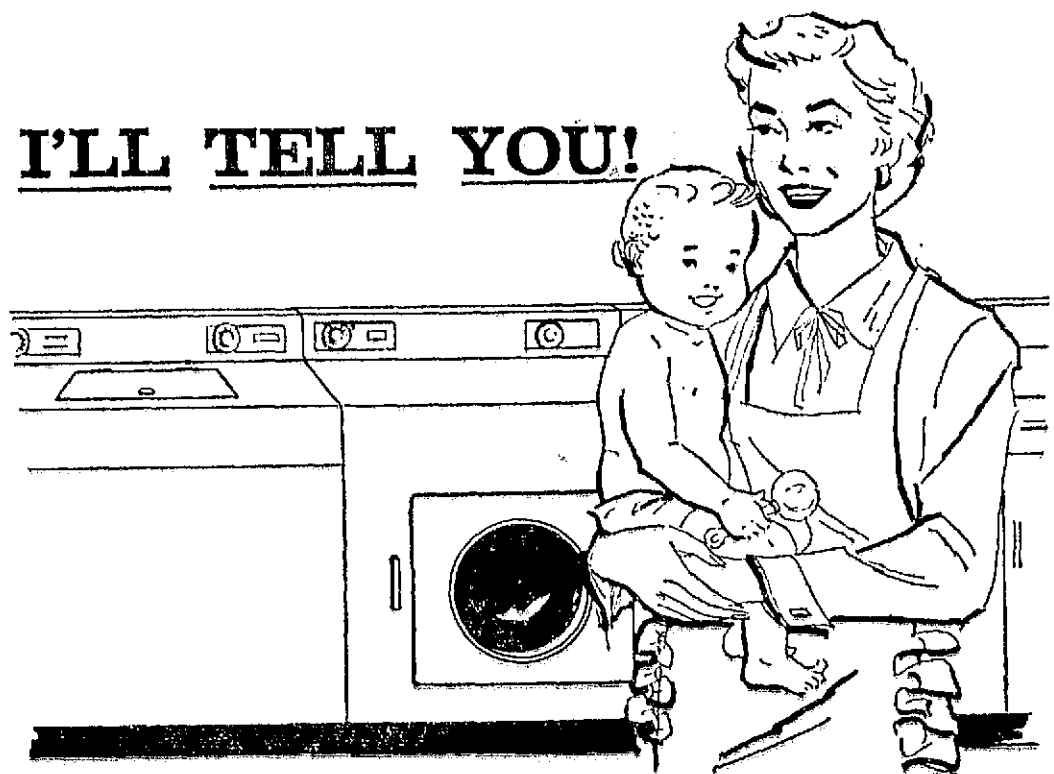

Consult your feed dealer

Your feed dealer can tell you, in detail, of the many advantages AUREOMYCIN offers. And he can supply your preferred layer feed containing recommended levels of AUREOMYCIN. He'll be glad to give you the benefit of his experience and knowledge. American Cyanamid Company, Agricultural Division, New York 20, N. Y. ©AUREOMYCIN is American Cyanamid Company's trademark for chlortetracycline.

Mr. Popp has depended on AUREOMYCIN for three years to control stress and disease in his flocks.

You don't need to tell ME about an Electric dryer--

It's the young mother with children who can write a better ad on Electric Dryers than we ever could! She's the one who can't wait on sunny days to dry her family's clothes... she's the one who must have a quick, and dependable dryer at her command every day. She's also the one who has too many demands on her time to devote it to unnecessary ironing, so she chooses the dryer that makes things like girders, toys, towels, diapers and similar items come out soft and fluffy—ready to fold and put away.

And, because today's young housewife is a smart money manager, she picks the ONE clothes dryer that can save her dollars instead of pennies! Electric dryers save at the time of purchase, they save on installation costs, and they save on upkeep, too, since they have fewer operating parts than other units.

Add them all together and you'll see why the young marrieds—and older couples too—think ELECTRIC when it comes to clothes drying.

WHAT'S THE COST? JUST ABOUT 6¢ A LOAD THE ELECTRIC WAY!
